Une saison qui se dessine

The French language is a mosaic bringing together over 300 million speakers and countless cultures. Under the Francophone banner, dozens of thousands of Kenyans sought to express their creativity talents and open themselves to a world of opportunities.

A season of cartoons and animation. Wished to Highlight that the language is diverse and through numerous colors they sought to illustrate the their creativity under the theme: A season of cartoons and animation.

The Embassies of Belgium, Burkina Faso, Djibouti, Egypt, France, Tunisia and Switzerland, alongside the Lycee Français, Alliances françaises and francophone civil society organisations have prepared a colourful program of events. Throughout this month, in Nairobi, Mombasa, Eldoret and on your screens, we will merrily gather around many events, of course strictly adhering to the set health protocols: film screenings, live shows, reading sessions, virtual conferences, exhibitions, literary scientific and sports events.

Together, we will explore our cultures and share their values of openness, universal learning, sustainable development and gender equality

Although often the beneficiaries of programmes set up in many countries, women are also major stakeholders in humanitarian assistance, e.g. working as logistics experts, health professionals, mediators, trainers, project or programme leaders and mine clearance experts. Both on short and long-term missions, they deal with emergencies, working with the most vulnerable people on the planet, sometimes at risk of their lives.

This is our tribute to them.

International Women's Rights Day

Involved in a project with French comic book author Chloé Wary in 2021 as part of the Year of Comics, the girls and young women of the Kibera Black Stars soccer team and Slum Soka rugby team will receive donations from the Embassy of France in Kenya and the United Nations in Nairobi. A grassroots and community initiative aiming at empowering the girls of Kibera through sport and supporting their education. This event is labeled Generation Equality

Between Image and Identity

Adjie Dieye et Thandiwe Muriu

An immersive photographic exhibition/installation by the photographers Adjie Dieye (Senegalese/Italian) and Thandiwe Muriu (Kenyan). The two artists explore contemporary African imagery through both a critical and an aesthetic lens. Adjie's Muggie Cube series investigates the notion of branding and its impact on society via the prism of the ubiquitous stock cube. Thandiwe's Como series is a vivid and playful display inspired by African fabric beauty.

SHOWS

Kenyan Classics - Rumba with Afrika Couleur

Singer/guitarist Fariji Napa and his band Afrika Couleur will take us down memory lane with some Congolese/Kenyan rumba sounds. Many Congolese rumba musicians arrived in Kenya in the 1960s/70s to record their music and to tour. Several groups stayed on and added Kenyan benga rhythms to their rumba. The infectious rumba beats were in turn adopted by Kenyan musicians. Rumba is a living example of cross-cultural influences, shaping and being shaped by sounds from here and afar.

Comic book workshop

Discovery of the amazing

world of Chloe Wary

Virtual meeting and Q&A between the artist and students of the Lycée Français Denis Diderot in partnership with Slum Soka, Kibera Black Star and Ghetto Classic.

As a French writer, illustrator and graphic designer, Chloé Wary has created an engaging universe where she draws on her own experience but also on her observation of the world to better describe its reality. Her collections are a promising start to a career in which female emancipation and the revocation of prejudices play an important role.

"There are still too few female role models in sports for little girls to dream of looking like them." C. Wary

Saison des Roses Workshop

Les Roses de Rosigny is the name of the women's section of the Rosigny-sur-Seine soccer club, a close-knit team that defends itself rather well on the field. Barbara, the captain, is taking her baccalaureate this year like her teammates, who are her second family . Chloé Wary's Saison des Roses is part of the selection of the Pépites internationales 2020 of the French Institute and the Salon du Livre et de la Presse Jeunesse of Montreuil. The author was awarded the Prix du Public France télévisions at the FIBD of Angoulême 2020, Prix Artemisia de l'émancipation 2020.

A Educational workshop on access for all will be held for LFDD students, players of the Slum Soka rugby team and players of the soccer team.

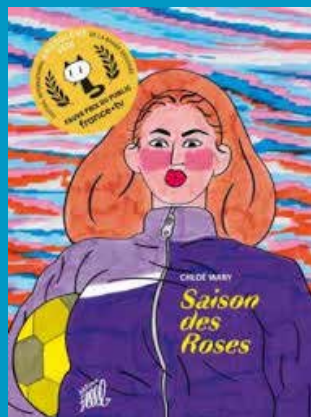

On March 16, 2pm

Beethoven - Sur - Seine Workshop

Chloe, a fan of soccer, sneakers and rag, doesn't know much about classical music. However, in this story she will tackle one of the greatest composers in history: Ludwig van Beethoven!

The high school students at the LFDD and the young people of Ghetto Classic will collaborate on a multidisciplinary educational workshop between visual arts and music.

On March 23, 2pm

Dis-moi dix mots qui ne manquent pas d'air !

Say Ten Words Contest Kenya 2021: Pencils Up!

This year we invite you to create, write and draw a comic book in French on a theme of your choice. The idea is to use ten words, to create your work, in French. These ten words, which illustrate a theme, are chosen each year by French-speaking partners: Belgium, France, Quebec, Switzerland and the International Organization of the Francophonie.

The constraint will be to include at least 5 words from the annual list of 10 words that constitutes the vocabulary of this edition: aile, allure, buller, chambre à air, decoller, éolien, foehn, fragrance, insuffler, vapoureux.

Terms: All comic book styles will be accepted, in color or black and white. Your comic must be a minimum of 2 boards and 8 dots and a maximum of 20 boards and 160 dots. Open to all!

The work must be sent by March 23rd at the latest to the following email address: labcitoyen.kenya@gmail.com

Offered by the Embassy of France in Kenya

1st place: The opportunity to pass your DELF/DALF (B1, B2 or C1)
+ 5 hours of distance learning exam preparation with a French teacher in partnership with the AFM.

2nd place : The opportunity to take your DELF/DALF (B1, B2 or C1)
+ 1 hour of exam preparation with a French teacher from the AFM

3rd place: The opportunity to pass your DELF/DALF (B1, B2 or C1)

 Notre Dame du Nil
 by Atiq Rahimi

2020 - Drama - 1h33
 Belgian - French - Rwandan film

Rwanda, 1973. In the prestigious Catholic institute «Our Lady of the Nile», perched on a hill, young Rwandan girls study to become the country's elite. On the verge of graduation, they share the same dormitory, the same dreams, the same adolescent problems. But in the four corners of the country, as well as within the school, there are deep antagonisms that will forever change the destiny of these young girls and of the entire country.

Comic Strip Tour of Belgium

Comic strips (comic books) delight the young and old alike and give Belgium an undeniable reputation. In collaboration with the Comic Strip Museum in Brussels, the Belgian government has developed the exhibition "A Comic Strip Tour of Belgium", which, while promoting the image of Belgium as the country of comics, highlights its cultural heritage. The exhibition illustrates the dynamics of Belgian authors and the evolution of an art in constant evolution. The country of the 9th art, which has such a large number of publishers, cartoonists and scriptwriters of comic strips, naturally inspired the authors of the exhibition. Drawings and photos therefore allow visitors to discover Belgium and comics in an original way.

At the Alliance Française of Mombasa from March 22 to 26 and on March 25 at Unseen Nairobi

Comic book workshop Discovery of the universe of Mohamed Shennawy

Online
March 29

Virtual meeting and Q&A between the artist and Francophone students from Kenyatta University and University of Nairobi.

Born in Egypt in 1978, Mohamed Shennawy is a cartoonist and cartoonist based in Belgium. He founded in 2011 a fanzine called Toktok with some comic book friends in which they discuss social issues such as politics, sexual harassment, youth unemployment... This magazine received an award at the Algiers International Comics Festival in 2011. In January 2012, Mohamed Shennawy participated in a collective exhibition on the theme of the new generation of Arab comics at the Cité de la BD in Angoulême, France. He regularly participates in book fairs such as the Maghreb-Orient du livre in Paris in 2012, the Frankfurt Book Fair in 2013 and the CairoComix Festival in Cairo in 2015.
